Student of Color Conference 2010
Transformation through Love and Art:
Actively Reclaiming Power for Our Community
November 15th through 21st, 2010

Healing Spaces Much like traditional caucus spaces, healing spaces are meant for people who identify with the space to come and talk about issues that affect their communities in a safe space. We ask that these spaces remained close. e.g. A First People’s Healing Space would be a closed space for anyone that identifies with the First Peoples identity.

Action Spaces These are spaces that have to do with a specific issue that people feel should be worked on. These spaces are not closed so that people that identify closely with an issue as well as allies that would like to work on this issue are encouraged to attend. e.g. A DREAM Action Space would be a space for people that are interested on working on a campaign to work on the DREAM Act would attend.

Learning Space Much like traditional workshops, these spaces are for the education of fellow students, and anyone that would like to learn more on an issue is encouraged to attend. e.g. How to be a QPOC Ally would be a space for people to learn how to become better allies to the QPOC community.

The spaces that are used as examples do not already exist and anyone is welcome to create these spaces.
